

#susfood_eranet

www.project-provide.eu

Membrane technology is an environmentally friendly alternative to the traditional separation, due to the intrinsic features of simple operation, easy control and scale-up, high stability under an extensive spectrum of operating conditions, and reduced environmental impact and energy.

Pressure-driven membrane processes using a hydraulic pressure difference between two sides of the membrane, allow to separate targeted components, such as proteins/lactose/riboflavin from whey and fibers from brewers' spent grain.

